American Steamer Luckenbach Goes Down Off Dover In Collision; Crew All Escape

LONDON, July 5.—German counter attacks, which were driven home with the strength of a battering ram, were delivered against the British front between the Ancre and Somme rivers last night.

All of these assaults were repulsed, the British war office announced today.

The most powerful of the onsets were made in the region of Thiepval which commands the Albert-Bapaume highway but they broke down under the barrier fire of the British artillery and the sweeping torrents of lead from the machine guns.

The Germans fell back leaving many dead and wounded in front of Thiepval.

PETROGRAD, July 5.—Fighting of the most violent character is now in progress along the entire front in Galicia and Russia, according to an official statement issued by the Russian war office today.

The struggle is particularly severe in the sector of Baranovitch. The fortified town of Ekimovitch, east of Varanovitch has changed hands a number of times, but is now in possession of the Russians.

West of Kolki, the report says, the Russians have occupied the first line of positions of the Germans.

UNITED STATES SHIP SINKS.

DOVER, England, July 5.—The American steamer Jacob Luckenbach, bound from San Francisco to Leith, was sunk off Dover today in collision with an unidentified vessel. The crew was saved.

The Jacob Luckenbach displaced 2,708 tons and was built in 1891 at Sunderland, England. Its port of registry was New York.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Consul General Skinner at London today cabled the state department confirmation of the sinking of the American steamer Jack Luckenbach near Dover, England, by collision with the steamer Eddystone. Skinner reported that "all hands were saved." He said the accident occurred at Downs, near Dover, early today.

BERLIN, July 5.—Although the British and French armies on the Somme front made repeated attacks against the German positions they made no further progress since last night.

This announcement was made by the war office today. Hard fighting is in progress in spite of the bad weather.

The following is the war office report in full:

"West front.—From the North sea to the Ancre there have been minor engagements with lively artillery firing and mine throwing. Unwounded British prisoners taken by us on the right bank of the Ancre now number 48 officers and 847 men. On both sides of the Somme there is violent fighting but the enemy has nowhere been able to obtain any material advantage.

FRENCH CONTINUE ADVANCE.

Advantages Gained in Great Five Days Offensive.

PARIS, July 5.—To the north and south of the Somme river the steady advance of the French continues in spite of rain-storms and furious counter attacks by the Germans.

North of the river German trenches east of Curly were captured in a storm attack and the French also occupied Sornmont Farm, the war office stated today in an official communication.

South of the river the Germans, using fresh troops, delivered strong attacks and succeeded in occupying Belloy-En-Santerre but were driven out by French counter attacks.

There has been no let-up in the savagery of the fighting in Picardy despite the stormy weather. Although the weather has been foggy, the big guns on both sides are in furious action.

This is the fifth day of the mighty offensive movement of the allies and already the results are so tremendous as to cause widespread amazement.

In brief the main achievements of the Anglo-French troops are these: 1.—The capture of nearly a score of strongly fortified villages from the Germans.

'More Men' Is Cry at Ohio State Camp Today

Rigid Test of Physical Rules Lessening Ranks of Militia.

CAMP WILLIS, Ohio, July 5.—"More men," was the cry which went up from commanders of all regiments except the Eighth today, as the federal army physical examiners made deep inroads into the ranks. The percentage of men in each command who failed to measure up to requirements is higher than anticipated by the officers.

Major Frank W. Hendley of the First field hospital, Cincinnati, sent an appeal back home for 12 men. He needed seven to fill up the quota, but was expecting at least five of the men already in to fall before the rigid test. The hospital corps, besides a marching drill, is put through a course which includes carrying litters, making bandages and listening to lectures each day.

Sergeant Virgil Schuler of Sycamore, a member of Company L of the Second, was discharged today upon receipt of notification that he had been selected as the Ohio National guards' cadet at West Point.

Twelve of the 60 men of Company G, Sixth, Defiance, who were taken ill with copper poisoning last night after eating beans which had been cooked in a copper kettle, were still on the sick list today.

Seven members of Company I, Fifth, Cleveland, were unable to walk the mile from camp to the federal examination station today because of blistered feet. They were given a "lift" on a truck.

Frank S. Hill, sergeant in Company M, Fifth, Youngstown, who was run down by an automobile while in Columbus on absent leave last night, was nursing a sprained ankle today which will keep him in the hospital two weeks. A near-riot followed the accident.

Twenty of Hill's comrades, who were seeing the sights with him, attacked the most vulnerable part of the machine, the tires, with their knives, and ripped them into ribbons. The driver deserted his machine and sought safety in a nearby store.

Three companies of the Eighth—L of Galton, M of Mansfield, and B of Akron—have not been examined yet. Federal officers have refused to muster in Company B, because it was notified in February that it was deficient. Lieutenant Colonel C. C. Weybrecht said today federal officers have re-examined the company and pronounced it O. K. The federal stamp of approval from Washington is expected any day.

Eugene Hull who, as first sergeant of Company F, Eighteenth Pennsylvania, was stationed at Alliance during the Spanish-American war to guard the munitions factory there, was rejected today by examining officers as a member of Company B, Eighth, of Ashland. He failed on the medical test.

"Lor," the fox mascot of Company K, Eighth, Alliance, has taken up with a fox terrier dog, meeting for another company, and the pair are inseparable pals.

The artillery and cavalry, which arrived in camp Sunday, have been isolated from the infantry, so that more room will be afforded for drilling. Troop C of Cincinnati, has 15 men more than the company is allowed. Some are to be transferred to Troop D, Toledo, which is under strength.

PLEDGE MADE TO EMPLOY ALL EFFORTS TO AVOID RENEWAL OF TROUBLE

Willingness to Mediate Is Expressed and Note Seems to End War Talk

MEXICO FACES HUNGER

Mobs In Cities Burn President In Effigy; Border Now Well Patrolled By U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—General Carranza's reply to the American note of June 20, and the ultimatum of June 25, has ended for the time being all war talk in Washington. High administration officials, after hastily scanning the document, delivered today to the state department, say that it seems to open up a way for a speedy adjustment of all differences between this government and the de facto government of Mexico.

EL PASO, Texas, July 5.—Mexican mobs have burned President Wilson in effigy in many towns of the state of Michoacan, according to Frank P. Smith, an American engineer who fled from Mexico to save his life. He stated today that the starvation attributed by Carranzista officials to an American embargo on food is prevalent in Michoacan and that the natives have threatened to kill all citizens of the United States.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—In its latest note to the United States government—delivered to Secretary of State Lansing this morning—the Mexican government pledges that it will "employ all efforts that may be at its disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggravate the situation." The note then states that the Mexican government hopes the United States will do the same.

The note states that the Mexican government is willing to consider in a quick and practical way the remedies which are necessary which should be applied to the present situation. It states that it is waiting to hear from the United States whether the offers of the Latin-American countries to mediate is acceptable to this government or whether direct negotiations between the two governments would be better.

The note cites the release of the Americans taken prisoner at Carrizal as proving the sincerity of the Mexican government in its effort to bring about a pacific ending of the present difficulty. The full text of the note as given out for publication at the Mexican embassy follows:

"Washington, D. C., July 4. "Mr. Secretary: "I have the honor to transmit in continuation the text of a note I have just received from my government with instructions to present it to your excellency.

"Mr. Secretary: "The Mexican government is willing to consider in a quick and practical way the remedies which should be applied to the present situation. It states that it is waiting to hear from the United States whether the offers of the Latin-American countries to mediate is acceptable to this government or whether direct negotiations between the two governments would be better.

current series of Mexican troubles began, is to assume an attitude of "watchful waiting" along the border.

From the gulf to the west coast its numbers will be posted—north of the Mexican border—to await the next outbreak across the Rio Grande. This time "watchful waiting" will be given new significance, however, by the fact that the army will be prepared to push a real expedition or invasion of Mexico in the event of new troubles.

This new plan—or rather return to the old plan—seemed certain today when word came from Washington that General Carranza's new note to President Wilson was quite moderate in tone and unofficial reports from General Pershing's expedition indicated that force was surely withdrawing toward the border.

Carranza's reply, following the return of prisoners and loot taken at Carrizal is expected to disperse the war-clouds that have piled up on the border so ominously in the past few weeks.

General Pershing's expected return to the border will place the entire American army on the north side of the international boundary line. As soon as he returns, the administrative plans for reformation of the southern divisions of the army is expected to go into effect.

With the support of the militia which continued to arrive and to fight camp by thousands today, the border will be well patrolled. The situation will be a reply to the critics—the leaders of whom are Carranza and his staff—who have declared that lack of sufficient border patrol has been responsible for Mexican bandit outrages. Had it been properly policed, these critics claim, the incidents of Columbus, Glen Springs, Bogillas and other raids and massacres could not have occurred.

If the reformation plan is carried out this theory will have a real test. Back of it will be the sustaining thought that, in event of a new outbreak, the American army will be in a position to start at once on the trail of the invaders. There should be none of the delay and lack of preparedness which marked the beginning of the Pershing expedition after Villa or the punitive forces which have since crossed the border.

Plans for the invasion of Mexico through Juarez which seemed about to be carried out ten days ago are still on the maps and the big "four point seven" are still mounted behind El Paso. But the reported decline of Carranza's note seems to step for some time the fulfillment of the plans and to spike the guns with diplomatic language.

Stories continued to come in from all along the border that snipers were making targets of trains along the border.

ALLIES' ADVANCE IS UNCHECKED IN WEST

Germany is rushing all her available reserves to the front. French air scouts report that the railway line between Cologne and Cambrai is clogged with troops and ammunition trains.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BALTIC.

German Attack Russian Ships; Enemy Retires in Fog.

BERLIN, via wireless, July 5.—Two naval engagements were fought in the Baltic south of Haefring on the night of June 29-30, both of which were successful for the Germans, says an official announcement made through the Overseas News Agency today. It follows: "German torpedo boats, twenty miles south of Haefring, sighted three hostile destroyers apparently of the Novik type.

"The Germans opened fire and the enemy ships immediately turned and made off, their escape being favored by a rain-storm.

"Later the Germans noticed new clouds of smoke toward the east and the German ships were directed toward them. Two hostile cruisers of the Makarov and Oleg types and five destroyers were recognized.

"The German ships attacked the Russians with torpedoes and with their guns. Several explosions were noticed on the Russian men of war, up to which time the Russians had been shelling the Germans heavily with guns of all calibers. The firing ceased, however, and fog came up which caused the adversaries to lose sight of each other."

BERLIN, July 5.—"The greatest artillery duel the world has ever witnessed is in progress along our west front. In neither the number of guns engaged nor the projectiles thrown has it ever been equaled.

"The allies offensive already shows signs of weakening. Their success in the first drive need cause no uneasiness. All that they took were towns and trenches that had been literally 'scraped' by their devastating artillery fire. As they rolled forward to our second line they were met with a destructive fire that inflicted terrible losses.

PAVEMENT AGENTS WORKING HARD FOR SUPREMACY IN LIMA

Local Attorneys Representing Many Firms Selling Various Materials.

Property Owners Urged to Investigate Before Backing Any.

With at least eight kinds of pavement in competition for the street improvements in Lima in the recent bond issue campaign, and with at least one attorney representing each brand of asphalt or brick or combination, the street improvement battle has become one well worth noticing.

Sheet asphalt, creosote block, asphalt block, bituminous composition, asphalt concrete, asphalt macadam and brick are the competitors in the race for supremacy in percentage adopted. The board of control is the chief objective of the attorneys, the members being pestered by agents, lobbyists, literature and property-owners' petitions.

As proof that residents owning property along the streets to be improved should exercise caution in signing petitions for any certain class of pavement, it should be remembered that the majority of foot frontage, not the majority of owners, will decide the nature of the pavement to be used. In one instance an agent for a certain company obtained signatures of several of the smaller property owners on a street to be improved, and one man with a lot fronting 400 feet accidentally discovered that the pavement in question meant a cost of approximately $7 per foot front. The agent of the company had resorted to misrepresentation in securing the signatures.

Contracts for the paving of 13 streets will be let this afternoon by the board of control. Counting the bids of contractors based on various classes of pavement, there were more than 75 bids received for the 13 streets, the task of tabulating requiring the attention of Engineer Bryson for five days. The improvement projects are as follows:

Richie avenue, Charles to Cole; South Elizabeth street, Eureka to Circular; South Charles, Elm to Lakewood; Fairview street, St. John's avenue to Sugar street; State, Cole to Charles; Lincoln, Elm to Lakewood; Washington, High to Pennsylvania railroad; Prospect, Kibby to Elm; Hughes, Second to Erie railroad; Franklin, Harrison avenue to Michael's addition; Elm, Cole to Woodlawn; Charles, High to Wayne; Haller, McDonald to Met-calf.

LUCY'S $20 BILL IS GRABBED BY MAN

Colored Man Makes Rapid Get-Away From Main and High.

While walking down Main street this afternoon, Miss Lucy Tullis dropped a $20 bill near the corner of Main and High streets. A pedestrian witnessed the fluttering of the large sized bill to the pavement and was about to recover it for her, when a colored man ran in front of him, snatched it from the sidewalk and disappeared in the crowd.

Police were informed of the incident and a number of patrolmen were detailed on the case. However, up to 2 o'clock this afternoon they were unable to apprehend the colored man. With the description furnished police are of the opinion that they will be able to arrest the fugitive today.

Mrs. E. K. Ferrall of 411 South Jackson street, is seriously ill at her home, friends of the family will be sorry to learn.

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC IMMENSE AFFAIR

Thousands March and More Thousands Enjoy Day at Fautot Park; Prizes Are Awarded in Athletic Contests.

If the success realized at the first annual picnic of Allen county Sunday schools, is a criterion by which to judge, then in future events, the union picnic on July Fourth will be anticipated with great pleasure. Five thousand Sunday school workers, carrying banners and the American flag, wended their way to Fautot park, singing old-time hymns as they went. Ideal weather characterized the day, not a cloud appearing in the sky.

There were but few Sunday schools in Allen county not represented. Each school had one or more floats, handsomely decorated. The South Side Church of Christ is said to have had the largest number in the parade.

Old men and women, young men and maidens and a bevy of children, marched in the procession, which was over a mile in length. The Loyal Women's class of the South Side Church of Christ marched in the parade, wearing Washington hats of purple and nashes in the same color, on which was inscribed the letters, "L. W." The Men's Bible class of the South Side Church of Christ wore white hats and white trousers and pulled behind them an old cannon. On this was seated a lame man.

Girls in white, carrying flags, mites of boys and girls in their bib tucker, and workers from every part of the city and county, were represented. Dr. J. H. Blattenberg was commander of the parade. Du-Pere's band led the hosts, furnishing inspiring music.

Crowds Greet Workers. At the park the parade broke rank and each school congregated for the basket dinner, which was served. Superintendents had previously arranged for the eating of the noon-day luncheon together. During the day hundreds of people visited the park and at no time during independence day was a greater crowd than thousands of people in the park.

An organization of Sunday school workers in the county was effected after the dinner hour, with Charles A. Goykendale, secretary of the Findlay Y. M. C. A., in charge. This county organization has been effected in many parts of Ohio. Allen county is now ready with her list of workers.

The program in the afternoon was given over to musical numbers. Mrs. Gwen Johnson, of Harrod, accompanied by Miss May Johnston, sang, as did Mrs. Charles Baxter and Miss Creators. Ensemble of Elida, a ladies' quartette, under the direction of Miss Leah Hall, of Lafayette, also sang. Ferry chapel favored with a male quartette.

Band concerts featured the entire day and evening. In the evening supper was served. A display of fireworks closed the day's entertainment, which, it is estimated, more than 12,000 people witnessed.

The principal speaker of the day was the Rev. D. N. Keller, of Marion. He was pastor of the Methodist church at Cairo some years ago and was formerly one of the county workers. He has risen high in the ranks of the ministry and now holds a pastorate of importance. His address, along Sunday school lines, was much enjoyed.

Not an accident occurred to mar the day and the success of the whole arrangement exceeded even the fondest hopes of the Lima Superintendents' association, which was in charge of the big picnic.

Athletic Events Attract. For those interested in the athletic sports, a program was carried out during the afternoon. In this respect great credit is due Prof. Seitz, who is in Lima at the instance of the board of education, in setting up the new public playgrounds. L. B. Hamilton, who managed the events and Miss Blanche Werum, who entertained them at the public playgrounds during the day.

Winners in the primary contests were: Running race, for girls, 40-yard dash, Lydia Leffel, 6 years, 628 South Central avenue, First Baptist church; 50-yard dash, Maxine Wallburg, 7 years, 601 North Union street, Trinity Methodist; 60-yard dash, Catharine Miller, 8 years, 516 North Franklin avenue, High Street U. B. church. For boys, 50-yard dash, Frank Stout, Trinity Methodist; 60-yard dash, Howard Hardesty, Prospect avenue, Grace Methodist church.

In the balance contest, where each child was compelled to carry a potato on the head a distance of 40 yards, Marie Miller, 778 North Elizabeth street, German Reformed church; Olive Polley, 173 East Circular street, First United Brethren; and Charles Marquis, 424 North Pierce street, Central Church of Christ, were the winners. This was open to children from six to eight years of age.

In the potato races, Russell Smith, 579 South Pierce street, Grace Methodist church, and Louis Cimminella, 1331 Atlantic avenue, Mishpah Center, were the successful winners. Each was to put four potatoes in a basket.

Ball bats, paint boxes, balls, checker-boards, boats, soldiers' caps, candy, handkerchiefs and such prizes were donated to be given to the children who won in these contests.

She says that when on June 19, of this year, she expressed a desire to attend the wedding of her younger sister, Dr. Sinks choked her and that again on June 29, he went through the same procedure. When she was in his office in January of this year, he struck her with the foot of an operating table, she states and injured her severely.

JACK TAR IS SHOCKED ON TROOP TRAIN GOING SOUTH

Nautical Terms Do Not Fit When He Describes Railway Journey.

By Daniel Bidwell.

SOMEWHERE IN TEXAS, July 5.—It is a bit hard on a sailor, mate, to take an inland cruise without chart or compass and to be off soundings where the water is all land and where the light houses are semaphore towers and the buoys are stations.

And so you'll bear with me, mates, while I write this log. The boat-swain's mates are top sergeants and the cornwains are corporals and the ensigns are second lieutenants and the bridge is in the cab.

The quarterdeck is in a tourist sleeper. There ain't no master-at-arms. The ships yeoman is called sergeant-major. The quartermaster has nothing to do with steering or the signal haliards. There ain't no signal haliards.

The officers' steward is not a Filipino, but is a coon. He is called a porter. There ain't no starboard watch, nor gun deck. The brig is called a guard house. The bum-boats coming to the gangways at the stations that we anchor at don't sell oranges and bananas and tobacco, only sandwiches and chocolate and goo.

You heave up anchor, mates, in a quarter of a minute! What do you know about that? The chief engineer is on the bridge! What do you know about that? The chief bosun's mate is aft! What do you know about that? There ain't no union jack! What do you know about that? There is an anchor to every car, mates, and they call it a brake. What do you know about that? You can sail the seven seas and never see no such phony sights as you see here among these fore-and-aft lime juice square blacks who call twenty-five knots slow and have no Marconi and no ward-room country and no officer of the deck and who wear their rating badges upside down and call the galley a kitchen.

Just now a big river is broad off the port beam. The land swabs say: "Right on the left side!" Right seems to be left to these jolly land swabs. It sure is some puzzle to a sailor man, mates.

The whole ship's company seems to be off watch all day long. The smoke lamp is lit all day long. A watch is set on the foc's'le head and the technical quarterdeck of each car—on front and rear platforms, as jolly land swabs call them—but the watch is only an hour long, as short as a "part" in an anchor watch.

The men here no ditty boxes. I asked one lad about it and he thought I meant a music portfolio. I spoke about getting under way and he thought I meant he was under weight.

We spun yarns for a spell and he was interested. Yes, mates, he kept smiling. He smiled often as he listened and seemed to think that all I told him was curious. When I knocked off he said to keep on going and when I said: "Steady on the same course, sir?" he said: "Right-o", and smiled again.

I don't know just how to stow that lad, but he sure was some smaller.

I asked him when he turned in and he said he walked straight. I asked him where he swung his hammock and he said on the front lawn in the shade of the old apple tree.

I put him right, gentle and easy, for it wasn't his fault that he didn't know nothin' and he thanked me in dago. I found that he was some kind of a jack-o-the-dust in an insurance company ward room.

Then I chatted with him about Genoa, where we lay half a month with the Des Moines, when Commander Blakely was the Old Man. We lay about two cable lengths from the Ponta Andrea Doria and I had liberty a good deal and saw the city talked about the water front and the Via Milano and he about one piazza and another, always making it pee-at-us.

He spun something about "local color" and said some high brow stuff which I didn't rightly understand. I couldn't talk back with the international code. "Somehow he reminded me of stickney on the Olympia at Manila Bay and just then, he told the story about the admiral, then commodore, saying "When you are ready, Mr. Griddle, you may fire."

Every quarter or half hour we'd steam past a small port where all hands would be on freight cars or manning the side on the platform. The fellows on the platform would cast loose and provide several rounds of cheers and then fire at will. They had a divisional officer whom they called a cheer leader. The crews were finely trained. It reminded me of gun practice off Culebra.

There were pretty girls in white uniforms mixed in and some in blues with phony rating badges. I saw one lass with a rating badge of a bosun's mate, first class, on her left sleeve, and fireman's red stripes. It seems that some house in Boston makes the rigs without regard to regulation, only wanting to get color in.

After we finished the chat I heard a fellow ask my friend: "Did you get enough stuff, Kenneth, for a story?"

Then I tumbled. It was a war correspondent like Stickney or Marshall I had been chatting with. He knew a bit about the navy and blue water and he had a smile like sunshine at Ponta Delgada or Capri.

Every port we steamed by was rigged fore and aft with flags and decorations. Old Glory was flying bravely aloft and aloft it was flaunting from staff and what with land swabs in the same as masthead Women were the colors. Girls came to car windows and shook hands with petty officers—non coms, landsmen call them—and gave them roses and pansies and daisies and said "Kull Carranza" and "Sweet Villa" and "Grease the greasers" and "be sure to remember us".

Every time we got under way a lad began to sing.

"And sure, I thought my heart would break

For the Girl I Left Behind Me."

Some girls would heave out long range kisses, for soldiers travel without a lass to correct deportment. I had to explain to a likely lad that "Legs" was uncupped from "Jummy Legs" and that "Jimmy Legs" was master-at-arms, which is the same as when landsmen say "cop".

I had to laugh to see a lad writing when the train was under way. But I tried the trick myself and found it like writing—on a ditty box when wind is a beam and the ship in a ground swell.

There was a tidy bit of motion at times, a combination heave and pitch and rock and several boys heaved, "car sick", they called it. The subsequent occurrences on the train had little charm for these boys. They were corpses to the world for several hours.

This train is like twenty-five or thirty others that are going at twenty-five knots across the continent to Mexico.

DAY NURSERY BOARD ELECTS NEW STAFF

New officers were elected at the meeting of the Lima Day Nursery board on Monday, when Mrs. M. P. Colt, who as president, has accomplished such wonderful things at the nursery, was re-elected to the presidency. Mrs. W. A. Campbell was chosen vice president, Mrs. Edward A. Williams, Jr., recording secretary, and Mrs. Frank A. Boone, corresponding secretary. Reports showed the institution to be in fine working order.

The amount of $152.60 was cleared as a result of the party given at Memorial hall on June 13. It was a most beautiful social arrangement. Ice cream, cake and coffee was served.

According to the report of the matron, 15 to 20 children are cared for daily at the nursery at High and Elizabeth streets, while mothers are at work.

The nursery extended a vote of thanks to all who in any way contributed to the success of the June party. Included were: the Pium orchestra, which furnished music, Eggert N. Zettitz, the Sealts company, Deisel company, Ohio Dairy company, White Mountain creamery, R. L. Graham company, Bowers bakery, the Deisel-Wemmer company, Feldman's, G. E. Blum, Carter & Carroll, Eckert & Son, Moore Bros and Rolt Zettitz.

NOT BOUND TO REMAIN IN GUARD AFTER TROUBLE IS OVER.

Adjutant General Hough is of the belief that if it was generally understood about the state that enlistments made in the Ohio National Guard under the new federal army law are binding only during hostilities, and in no case for a period longer than three years, the guard units which are not yet recruited to full war strength would speedily be filled to their full quota of men.

In reference to the matter, General Hough said he had conferred with both federal and state army authorities, who advised him that at the termination of trouble with Mexico, if such trouble should occur, each man might determine for himself whether he was to be any longer a member of the guard.

FREIGHT CARS UPSET.

SIT ON R. R. TRACK TWO ARE KILLED

AKRON, O., July 5.—Two killed and one fatally injured by trains while sitting on the railroad tracks was Akron's Fourth of July record. At Barborton late last night John Christopher, 42, Millersburg, was sitting on the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near the station at Barborton and had apparently gone to sleep when a fast flyer hit him killing him instantly.

At Cuyahoga Falls, Edward McCue, 45, Newburg, and Charles and Harry Weaver, 40 and 42, respectively, of Alliance, were similarly caught on the Pennsylvania tracks while waiting for the train to take them back to Ravenna where they were employed.

McCue was instantly killed and Charles Weaver lost one leg and sustained a fractured skull. Harry Weaver jumped in time to save his life.

ACCIDENTS ARE FEW.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 5.—It is estimated that 75,000 persons from this city and surrounding towns participated in the Fourth of July celebration here. The climax of the celebration came with elaborate fireworks displays in four city parks in the morning a pageant was given. The Fourth was celebrated in a safe and sane manner. There were few accidents during the day.

"Precisely. Our opinions are the same, but the difference in the cost is $20 and to have confidence in your case is well worth $20. This war is a terrible affair, is it not?"—Washington Star.

THE LAKE TOMAHAWK

VOL. 1. INDIAN LAKE, OHIO. NO. 7
WILLIAM CLEVERGER, Editor
WEATHER—Fine KE, OHIO NO. 8

Saturday.
The fishes are caught. It happened this way. From Lima came a blushing bride and groom to spend a part of the honeymoon at Orchard Island. The news spread and the appreciable islanders decided to celebrate by "belling" the happy couple. Led by Cleverger, our corps of noisemakers left the camp fire and proceeded to the bridal cottage. Brother Fisher was made happy and the crowd was happy too, when he lined them up and lead the mob to Cushman's where the "pop" was generously distributed to all merry-makers. The crowd returned a little late but elated by their good time. Hurrah for Fisher, too bad he can't get married again today.

Yes, sir, Lloyd Reese likes chicken and so do all of his tent mates. He returned from Lima yesterday with a fine fat chunk of poultry in a package, which he smuggled to the chef, who proceeded to cook it. At 10:30 p. m. the members of No. 4 tent were talking in whispers as the chicken was being carved. Some of the boys didn't eat breakfast this morning. We are very dense as it is hard to comprehend the loss of appetite when the chef has such dandy breakfasts.

Sid forgot to come home from swimming until dinner time. Didn't he look sweet in the Bull Ring in his bathing costume while we ate watermelon?

Speaking of watermelon reminds us that it does not agree with "Tug" Douglass. Say, where did you say the pain was, Clarence?

Well, well, well, "Doc" Rooney now has a patient. Sid got a bump on his ankle and is confined to quarters by the "Doc's" orders. Sid may be seen decorating the campus by Monday.

We wonder what Merle means when he said, "I had my arms full trying to teach Doris to swim. Tell us how you did it, Merle."

The tents are in such good condition that inspectors can't remember which they vote for. Young, to day, acting as inspector, reported in favor of tent No. 2 and tent No. 2 was declared the winner, after dismissal from ranks Young advised others that he voted for No. 3, so it was decided by the leaders to declare "no inspection" to settle the argument. Tomorrow's inspection will be a humdinger, we bet.

We are going to church in Lakeview, Sunday. A motorboat will convey all that wish to make the trip. All absentees from church will miss the ice cream for dinner. We bet the editor won't be absent.

Virgil Verbrake with his famous motorbike got into camp today. Virgil headed for the lake on his arrival. Someone reports he wears a very flashy bathing suit. Owing to the intense heat, today, our swimming period in the afternoon was called at 3:30 instead of 4 p. m. This is pleasurable, "Doc," we hope it keeps hot.

Today was wash day for some of the campers. They must have clean clothing when they go to the Lakeview church tomorrow.

Tonight we shall gobble those five pounds of marsh mallows Mr. Hunter has sent us. Hurrah for Hunter.

Spending money is getting low in camp and some fellows are anxiously awaiting for the arrival of parents tomorrow. The Fourth is going to be a big day here from the accounts we are receiving.

Robinson reports that he is very much in favor of the way the chef makes up his bed. He saves you a lot of work, Hiram.

Bobby Tarr nearly scared the campfire group last evening when he told that original story. It was a hummer.

Cleverger and Verbrake were trying to give a display of motorbiking today, but they gave a mighty poor exhibition so far as we can see. "Mid" has to call for an application of iodine.

Sunday.
Weather: Fiery Hot.

Water: Couldn't be Improved.

We nearly fainted today when we first opened our eyes and saw that Bobby King had returned to our camp circle. Bobby had a case of homesickness but it was not as bad as the case of campickness he had. So, as a remedy he camps where the real sport is.

Paul Foust got too much sun while in swimming yesterday, so today while his parents are visiting him he is on the sicklist. Too bad,

Paul, they brought some fine eats with them.

Did you see the smile on the "Doc's" phiz? Mrs. Rooney was here to inspect the camp. She says she will have to have the razors sharpened because that mustache of the "Doc's" will never do around home.

Some folks are strange. Robinson can't understand why the chef and "Doc" like Limburger cheese. And Hiram can't even get on speaking terms with the odor.

Well, we had a whole lot of visitors today. Sunday always brings us a big bunch of visitors. The Fousts, Townsends, Oscar Youngs, Charles Youngs, Kings, Douglass' and etc. ad infinitum.

Last evening we hiked to Russell's Point to see the opening of the season. The Point looked almost like a city. Electric lights, autos, dancing and pop corn men were all there. We returned about 9 p. m. and had a campfire as usual at which Brother Hunter's marshmallows were opened and toasted. Mr. Hunter sent such a generous supply that we have enough for tonight.

Sid's bum ankle bothered him so much that we sent him home today. Sid says he will be back again for the big doings on the Fourth. Glad to have you, "Old Noddy."

Poor Verle was kidnapped by his aunt last evening. It nearly broke Turman's heart to miss a few more of the chef's meals.

Today's heat was made more enjoyable by that dandy motorboat ride to Lakeview, where we attended the United Brethren church. A former pastor was in the pulpit and gave us a dandy sermon on keeping our appointments with God. He suggested that we have some especially regular times for meeting with Him. Such sermons make church attendance profitable.

Robinson has gone. Where? Back to Lima on the extra seat of Verbrake's motorbike. We wish you a happy trip Hiram. We saw you putting extra padding on the seat.

Tent inspection was a big hustle, as promised yesterday. When the eats are as a prize No. 2 tent always came through as a winner. This sets the camp record at four times for one tent. No. 3 tent is second, with two times to its credit. Well done, No. 2.

Chicken for dinner today. Everyone said "some dinner." Ice cream topped things, as usual Good work, chef.

We are wondering why Mid and Virgil didn't go to church today. What's the answer fellows?

Hawisher is reported to have some good things to eat. His folks brought them to him.

"Peanut" Crawford is still with us, but he is so quiet about it we have to look for him.

Bobby Michael is making a cleanup record. Bob is the rep-representative of what it is to be well dressed and he's having a good time.

REVOLT IN COUNCIL HALTS CITY BUDGET

Bad Faith With East Side Citizens is Cause of Break.

Bad faith on the part of the majority of the city council, with regard to the promised East Market street subway under the D. T. & I tracks, was the reason offered by three members of the body Monday night in voting against the budget. The proposed division of appropriations made by the finance committee overlooked the relief pledged to the east side residents in order to insure the passage of the bond issues of April 25.

Stiles, North and Naylor blocked the passage of the ordinance. Muntis, who represents that section of the city, was absent, but it is believed that he will join Stiles in opposing the adoption of a report ignoring the Market street subway proposition.

Meanwhile the city payroll is held up and the payment of all salaries blocked by the failure of the budget for the second half of the year to pass the council. As one member of the opposition is quoted as stating today, "that's what they get for landing a raise at the wrong time." This sentiment is taken to mean that the city salary list should not have been boosted until the $2,600 appropriation for the relief of the east end should have been passed.

As the matter stands at present, the ordinance is still merely a committee report, rejected by being defeated on the first reading. It will require doctoring to make it acceptable to the minority, and no thorough vote is required to suspend the rules the budget must placate the opposition by including the subway cost.

MRS. NEWCOMER'S FUNERAL HELD AT CRIDERSVILLE

Funeral services for Mrs. F. L. Newcomer of Cridersville, who died at her home Monday, were held this afternoon at the residence, conducted by the Rev. W. W. Constern of Lima, pastor of the Cridersville Methodist church. The body was accompanied to Wapakoneta, where interment was made in Greenlawn cemetery.

For six weeks Mrs. Newcomer has been ill, suffering from diabetes. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher and was born on the farm where now is located the Auglaize county infirmary. The husband and two sons, Robert Fisher and Fred Newcomer, are left.

She was a member of the Daughters of Rebekah and Maccabees, which organizations were largely represented at the funeral. She was 62 years old.

STEAMER vs. MOTOR

The economies obtained in the operation of a motor ship as compared to a steamer are almost unbelievable, due to the fact that there are no large boilers or stokeholds in the former and because the consumption of oil fuel is only one-fifth of that of coal or oil-fired steamer, so the bunker and oil spaces thus saved can be given over to extra cargo. With a tramp steamer of 10,000 tons about 600 tons of extra cargo can be carried, and at the present high rate of freights the economical advantage in a year is enormous, apart from the large saving on the fuel bill.—Exchange

KEEPING FAITH

It is not surprising that the majority of the city council backed the budget submitted by the finance committee Monday evening, because of the breach of faith with the East Side. There is a moral obligation on the part of the city which the council cannot ignore. It involves the opening of East Market street by a subway under the D. T. and I. tracks.

For several years the residents of that section have been seeking, like Hudson, the "Northwest Passage." Their end of the city is cut off almost completely, and prayers for relief have been constant. During the campaign preceding the bond issue election of April 25 the residents of the East End saw their opportunity to swing the club. On assurances of a subway on Market street the voters beyond the D. T. and I. agreed to support the bonds, and the result shows that they kept their promise loyally.

It is now the duty of the city to keep faith and hand the East Side what they were promised. Instead of that, however, what do we find? Salary boosts for the good Republicans in office, increased expenditures in the safety and service departments, nothing extra for the library and needy projects but plenty to be blown in.

A promise is as good as its maker—not a bit better.

THE ANNUAL TOLL

Reports from around the country make it evident that the "safe-and-sane" idea is at last beginning to take effect. July 4 has long been a reproach toward our national common sense, for the way in which it has been observed has made it the traditional thing to read in the papers of July 5 a long list of accidents. But today the toll of dead and injured is smaller than ever before.

Noise is not an argument. It produced mechanically it is not even an expression. To explode a cannon cracker is not to commemorate the nation's birth, but to sing, cheer, yell or otherwise personally produce a racket in a crude, means of expressing interest in the proceedings. Yet for two generations the country has apparently believed that noise and fireworks proved patriotism.

The best brand of patriotism is silent, and it does not need advertising at that. Good citizenship is far more useful than the burning and exploding of money. It is also less dangerous to the eyes and limbs of little children.

THE SOMME DRIVE

That the war would start in 1916 was the prediction of the late Earl Kitchener, early in August of year before last. That the Entente forces intended to resort only to defensive tactics until properly prepared for an advance became patent after England's Dardanelles fiasco, for the driving power of the Russians appeared as nearly spent as did the land prestige of Britain. Now, however, the great Western drive appears to be on in full swing, with the Russians pouring over the Carpathians into Galicia and the Grand Duke Nicholas rampant in Asia Minor. The deadlock in the military situation must break.

The preparations for the drive in the Somme elevate Foch to the rank of Joffre. He will go down as the grand offensive leader as the latter has become one of the greatest defenders of all time. "The French Hindenberg" is hardly a worthy title for a strategist of his ability, for Hindenberg won his fame pushing back the Russians after the latter had run short of munitions.

Whether or not the transportation of Russians to the Western front was the first step in the great offensive, or whether it was a tip to throw the Germans off of the track, is still uncertain, but the latter may be true, for the appearance of Cosack on the Western trench line distracted Berlin's attention from the possibility of a drive into Galicia from the North. Before Austria knew how it started, the Russian border began to sweep across the mountains, and immediately Germany rushed troops from the Argonne and Verdun. Immediately Foch started his attack, firing more than a million shells a day for three days.

It may be the beginning of the end, or it may shift the deadlock to a new line. It is hardly possible that the drive will clear Belgium, but a good strip of territory will pass to the British and French. If they can hold it long enough to prepare for another drive as powerful as this the war is as good as ended.

Some unkind observers have been so cruel as to refer to the Hughes-Fairbanks combination as the Whiskers Ring. Others see in it a rival of the Ice Trust. As both are Charley by name, some predict that the pair will develop Charley-horse when they start to run. At any rate, it will be cool this summer, with two sphinxes giving the frosty fin to the public.

There are two classes of patriots. One class cheers the flag at the sight of a parade, jumps to his feet when the national anthem is sounded and takes care to manifest his loyalty on all occasions. The other kind of a patriot pays his taxes, tells the truth to the assessor, votes for the best man regardless of faction or party, takes an interest in civic problems and is willing to boost any good measure.

Just as a token of the difference in courage between Wilson and Hughes, kindly take notice of the fact that the latter deplores the Lusitania sinking as a "tragedy" and the former denounces it as a "crime".

Now that the safety director, city solicitor, police judge and city chemist are at the front, Jimmy Hoffner will probably get lonesome for someone interested in the militia.

The old-fashioned lad who blew his fingers off on July 4 now has a son who speeds up his benzine buggy and runs into a telephone pole.

Every little boy may some day be president—except in Indiana. Every little Hoosier boy may some day be vice president.

To date, no mad wag has referred to the commissary department as the bread line.

"YOUTH'S ENDEARING CHARM" pictured from Maybelle Hellock Justice's ever popular story of the same name, has been chosen as the first of the five-reel American-Mutual features starring Mary Miles Minter. The production is now almost completed.

In the comedy-drama, Miss Minter will be seen in the pathetic role of Mary, a little orphan bound out by an asylum to the family of a brutal farmer.

Insofar as atmosphere and the selection of the proper locations are concerned, the picture of Miss Justice's story is being followed with exceptional care. For the filming of a number of the important exterior scenes, Miss Minter and her entire company of players, cameraman, director and various assistants spent almost a week in one of the garden spots of the Santa Ynez range, some 50 miles south of Santa Barbara, California.

Franchiser, Foye, intends to thank Rev. Morgan E. George, of the First Christian church of Ottumwa, Iowa, who has written "Thee Mary," expressing confidence that she will win yet greater fame in gentler roles, as "in one that would liberate the sweetest I know you really must possess."

"Your mouth," he writes, "very rarely expresses anything, but the cruel, the hard, the sinister. In fact your whole bearing is the epitome of cruelty. But those eyes! Magnetic, wonderful in expression, searching, questioning, restless, with the depth of eternally—these at times betray the woman as an actress, for they change sometimes, just when the lip curls with satanic sneer."

Again—a Charlie Chaplin story. An aggravated case of Chaplinitis landed an Italian in England in jail. The Italian was charged with wife beating. The wife told the magistrate that her husband amused their little boy on Sundays by imitating Charlie Chaplin. In his excitement he would knock his wife off the chair, chase her with the coal hammer, throw her about the room and beat her violently with his fist. Once—just once—he stuck her up the chimney. Enuff!"

In the next picture in which Violet Mersereau is to be starred by the Bluebird Company, she will be surrounded by oriental splendors direct from China. The scenes of the production, to be realized under the title of "Broken Fetters," are about evenly divided between China and New York, and show the adventures of the daughter of an American diplomat killed at his post.

Kathlyn Williams was married recently to Charles Eytan, one of the owners of the Morocco Company, which produces movies and staged plays. She's the star of "The Adventures of Kathlyn."

YOUR STOMACH TROUBLE COMES FROM YOUR LIVER

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Brings Relief in 30 Minutes.

Your stomach cannot perform its functions properly if your liver is clogged. And stomach troubles won't help your stomach trouble because the seat of the trouble is in your liver.

The reason liver trouble often deranges the stomach is because when the liver is inactive the bile tubes become clogged. This causes the bile to work back into the stomach instead of flowing on into the bowels. The result is stomach trouble, heartburn, "stomach headaches," coated tongue and salivary complexion.

An occasional Tollo Water liver bath will relieve all these symptoms in 30 minutes. It will clean out the bile tubes and give your digestive organs a fresh clean start.

Tollo Water is found at Dawson Springs, a famous Kentucky health resort, where it is concentrated, bottled and shipped to your drug-gist. It has the property of dissolving the obstructions in the bile tubes and stimulating the action of the liver.

Clean your liver tomorrow with a Tollo Water liver bath. It will relieve your over-burdened liver and remove all waste from the stomach and bowels. You will be surprised and pleased at its quiet results. Your stomach trouble will disappear, and you will be able to eat what you like and enjoy it.

Get a 15 cent bottle of Tollo Water from your druggist and drink a third of a tumbler full in a glass of drinking water before breakfast. In thirty minutes you will be feeling fine.

MALACCA.

Malacca is a sleepy, even-tempered old town that might be said to meditating about anything at all. Few ships stop there, few white men live there, the busy neighboring cities of Penang and Singapore refer to it contemptuously as "Sleepy Hollow." Only the Chinaman, always a philosopher, who likes to spend his declining years listening to the tinkle of wind-bells and gazing into some lily-pool, often retires to Malacca when he has made his fortune.

Why they put Malacca where it is gives the visitor something to speculate about. There is no visible harbor; the city is apparently set down at random on the curving beach. Long gravelly shallows extend far out from shore, making it impossible for ships of any size to res close in. An old pier stretches its length far out into the ocean, like a stiff arm reaching out for the lost trade, but even the pier is not much of a help to really big ships.

Few people land a Malacca. The arrival of a stranger on the beach attracts attention even from the passive crowd of Malays and non-descript Orientals who lounge about the shore end of the old pier. At first glance this seems to be a yellow city, for in all its hundred thousand people there are only about a hundred Europeans.

Malacca is not a city of empty houses, because the Malays and the poorer Chinese have joyfully moved into any accommodations they found vacant; but it is distinctly a city where many of the houses have seen their best days. There is an old cathedral built by the Portuguese overlooking the city. The roof has fallen in and tropic insects scuttled up and down the walls. By day it is given over to dust and ghosts, but when darkness settles over the waters, they light a great lantern in the old tower, and mariners steer their course by the mark of the ancient church.

There are two explanations of Malacca's present sleepiness. The political economists say that the trade has gone to Penang and Singapore; but there are some who will tell you the story of St. Xavier. That good man, who worked duty for the faith in the Orient, tried to convert the people of Malacca, but they proved obdurate. At last, the saint shook the dust of Malacca from his shoes; and it has never recovered since.

Do You Keep Your Money Busy?

Is your money lazy? Does it lie around month after month earning 2 or 3 per cent, or nothing at all, when it might be finding a safe and legitimate way to earn 7%? You are quick enough to recognize the value of a man who is energetic and alert, and you know that he is worth three or four times as much as one who is lazy and indolent. But are you equally keen to appreciate the excellence of money that goes out into the world and keeps moving until it finds a safe berth where it can earn 7%?

Do you know that one of the safest and most convenient ways for your money to earn 7% is to buy the kind of industrial preferred stock we have been selling for twelve years? Do you know that you can verify this fact through any bank or commercial agency in Stark County, where our principal office is located? If you do know these things and your funds continue to idle along at 2 or 3 per cent, is there anyone but yourself to blame?

Perhaps you will say that you do not have time to make a study of investments. This is probably true. It is also true of more than 10,000 men and women, residing in thirty-five states, who have learned to rely on our recommendation in making their investments. During the past twelve years they have bought nearly $20,000,000, par value, of preferred stocks from us without the loss of a dollar of principal or income.

If you have $100 or more that should be put to work, send us your name and address today, and we will send you a booklet describing the 7% cumulative preferred stock of The Central Steel Company. This booklet contains financial statements and other accurate information which we place at your disposal, without expense or obligation, as part of our service to those who have money to invest.

FRENCH ACADEMY AGAINST PLAN TO PUT CLOCK AHEAD

Scientific Body Will Smooth
or Objections to Show Patriotism.

PARIS, July 3.—France's famous Academy of Sciences has just put the soft pedal on the proposition to turn the clock ahead for an hour until the end of the war, as Germany, then England, then Austria, did.

For reasons of patriotism the academy contented itself with merely applying the soft pedal instead of the loud one, because it had been informed by the French government that turning the clock ahead an hour would result in an immense national economy during the present crisis.

But while the soft pedal was thus reserved for the proposition as it applies to France in the present emergency, the academy nevertheless went on record by a vote of 19 against 13 to apply the loud pedal, with all of its fortissimo qualities, as regards the turning of the clock ahead in the United States or any other country where science does not have to take a back seat for patriotism.

The academy's adverse vote came after the proposition had been sanctioned by the French cabinet, passed by the chamber of deputies, and finally presented to the senate for final approval. Before committing itself the academy had the proposition passed upon by three commissions—one from the standpoint of geography, one from the viewpoint of astronomy, and from the angle of navigation.

All three of the commissions, each composed of the most famous scientists along each of the three particular lines, reported negatively, and the academy as a whole therefore acted in accordance.

First of all, the academy decided that, as its one and only reason for existence and its one function is to search out truth, it would be an absolute folly to assist in perpetrating such a gross untruth as to try to deceive the entire world into the idea that the day had been moved a peg.

The academy held that the hours of the day are fixed by unchangeable laws of nature and science which investigators have been centuries in searching out and establishing. Any effort to establish even a temporary fiction to the contrary would, it held, be worse than a reversion to the early days of primitive ignorance on such subjects.

In the secrecy of its session on the subject the academy went even further and frankly declared that it had no faith whatever in the government's idea that advancing the clock an hour would result in a great national economy.

The coal, oil, gas or electricity, it declared, that the people would not burn in their stores and offices by reason of earlier closing, they would burn after getting home at night, and the total result would be the same.

What the academy suggested was that the proper thing to do is to get after the public itself and work a change in present customs and habits. People who get up now at 5, 6, or 8 o'clock in the morning, should be routed out of bed at 4, 5, and 7 o'clock instead.

This, it was insisted, would result in actual economy, without trying to perpetrate a fiction against all the laws of nature and science and without working serious disorders in the whole social structure of humanity, which the academy declared would inevitably result from tampering with the clock.

But as has been said, the academy, after deciding that for scientific reason it could not support the measure, yet for patriotic ones it would only work the soft pedal as France is concerned, reserving the loud one for foreign countries where the idea might possibly gain headway.

SHOULD SLOAN'S LINIMENT GO ALONG?

Of course it should. For after a strenuous day when your muscles have been exercised to the limit an application of Sloan's Liniment will take the soreness and stiffness away and get you in fine shape for the morrow. You should also use it for a sudden attack of toothache, stiff neck, backache, stings, bites and the many accidents that are incidental to a vacation. "We would as soon leave our baggage as go on a vacation or camp out without Sloan's Liniment." Writes one vacationist "We use it for everything from cramps to toothache." Put a bottle in your bag, be prepared and have no regrets.

NERVES

PASSING by a stout and healthy middle aged lady the other day I heard her exclaim: "There is nothing wrong with me except a bad case of nerves." And then she sighed profoundly, and looked heavenwards as if she were numbering her days. It seems to me that women as a rule delight in having "nerves." It seems to be a mark of femininity, to some, but really I think it shows a lack of self control more than anything else. Just to take a lesson from "mere man"—how many of them that you know indulge in a fit of nerves? You would think they were perfectly ridiculous, wouldn't you, if they took it as such a thing? And yet we take it as our prerogative to let our annoyances get the better of us. A little thing that causes us any bother, or infringes on our power of selfishness, we let it fall to the blame of our "nerves." It's an excuse really more than anything else, to show all our little failings off on our overworked nervous system. And moreover, it is nothing to be at all proud of, this having "nerves," rather it should be something we should seek to overcome with as much secrecy as possible. Don't misunderstand me, there are always exceptions for the woman who does nothing but work for pleasure, and then succumbs with a nervous breakdown. All women as well as all men, like and admire a healthy mind, but for some queer reason, most women think it a distinction to be suffering physically. No one without a healthy body can have a healthy mind, and those of us who talk nerves, should see ourselves as others see us, and perhaps we would adopt the slogan, "No nerves for Women."

(Dallas News)
 Advice to men: Shave often, or don't shave at all. To compromise is fierce.

When a woman has plenty of money she can get as foolish a hat as she wants.

While being led into temptation is about the only time some young men get a move on them.

Some men will bet on almost anything until they lose all their money and are unable to either put up or shut up.

Of course, there have been lots of sorry ones, but when he stood up after the last bite and laid all the blame on his wife, Adam made the worst after-dinner speech on record.

TO BALK LOAN SHARKS.
R. R. DOUBLES PAY DAYS.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 5.—To give its employees the benefit of their wages as soon as possible after they have earned them, the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad has announced that hereafter all employees will be paid on the first and fifteenth of each month, instead of on the last of each month, as has been customary. Other southern roads may follow the example.

In some sections of the industrial south there is strong sentiment in favor of legislation which will compel railroads and industrial corporations to pay their employees at least semi-monthly. It is contended that where wages are paid only once a month employees frequently resort to loan sharks to tide them over until the next pay day.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

Edith's Money-Raising Campaign Does Not Start Very Auspiciously.

EDLITH GORDON is a frantic endeavor to save money toward paying for the suit for which she had run in debt resolved to do all the buying herself instead of trusting it to the maid. The result was anything but satisfactory, for being utterly without experience she succeeded only in making the bills larger than ever. She was tempted to buy any expensive dainty that was shown, for her appetite was very capricious. Naturally as she did no work and took no exercise in the open air, nothing tasted very good to her. So fearful was she that Ralph would get the monthly statement from the Kansas City firm that she visited the post office after every mail until Ralph commented about it. She explained the matter by saying she needed regular exercise. When the bill finally arrived she buried it deep in the lowest drawer of her desk where it would have taken a detective to have found it among the jumble of papers. Every time she went near the desk she thought of the hateful bill and wondered how in the world she was to get it paid. She figured up the grocer's and butcher's bills from the stubs sent with the goods, never by any chance getting the same answer twice, until she was fairly feverish.

"I'll have to send them at least five dollars this month," she thought. "I will have a talk with Julia and tell her that the bills must be made smaller next month. I'll cut out all candy, and I will not spend a cent for anything." After this righteous resolve she went down to the post office, got a money order for five dollars and sent it to the firm. The resolve made her so light-hearted that she bought an ice cream soda and a half pound of candy just to celebrate the prospective freedom from debt. When the receipts for the five dollars had been tucked away in the drawer with the bill she was quite light-hearted over the whole affair. On the tenth Ralph paid all bills and when she saw him come to the table on that evening with a cloud on his face she knew what was the matter and began marshaling all her charms to drive the cloud away. After dinner she brought a tiny stool and placed herself on it. She

PERSONALITIES I HAVE MET

D. W. GRIFFITH—PART I

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"WELL, YOUNG lady, who are you?" were the first words Mr. Griffith ever spoke to me. "I am Mary Pickford," I replied saucily, "and I want to see the manager of the studio." "Well, Little Miss Independence, won't I do?" And he looked at me with hurt eyes, but smiling lips. "Indeed you won't. And I glanced at him laughingly, then continued, "I will talk to the manager of this studio for you." "If that's the case, you can talk to me," And Mr. Griffith smiled down at me triumphantly, like the great schoolboy he can sometimes be. For a minute I stood my guard and then I realized too late what an uncomplimentary mistake I had made. But at 15 one has a great deal of assurance which disappears as one grows older, so I soon regained my poise and told him confidently that I had come there expecting to be engaged as a moving picture actress. "What experience have you had that makes you think you would do well in pictures?" he asked me a little arrogantly, to tease me. "Two years with Mr. Belasco and ten years on the stage," I replied with a curl of my lips. "That's the experience I have had." Of course this amused him highly, so he continued with his bantering questions. "A young lady with such remarkable experience would demand a great deal of money. And he looked at me slyly. Then, at the question of salary,

For mid-summer, here is an attractive lingerie frock of white net with deep border of batiste featuring a cut out design. This trimming is introduced on the apron tunic and forms the broad lapels on the bodice. A rose ribbon girdle is draped attractively about the waistline.

my whole manner changed a bit. "I have been getting $35 a week," and I had great stress upon it. "But," as an afterthought I added, "I'm willing to take less!"

His laughter following this struck a jarring note with me, but still I persisted in telling him how well I would do in pictures once I was given an opportunity.

"Very well," and he led me from the office out to the stage. "Well, now what you can do this afternoon."

"Oh!" I gasped. "You're not going to make me act before a camera today, are you? Without—without rehearsing?" I added.

"Yes," he tormented. "You've assured me how splendid an actress you are and now I am going to put you to the test."

As we walked across the stage, the group of actors and actresses turned and stared at me, wondering who the little girl was Mr. Griffith was going to try out before the camera.

Kate Bruce, dear old Daddy Miller, Owen Moore, Arthur Johnson, Mack Sennett, Marion Leonard and Florence Lawrence all gathered around the scene, listening to Mr. Griffith giving me instructions as to what I was to do, smiling at my staring eyes and flushed cheeks, which betrayed me immediately as an amateur in this moving picture field.

"What am I to do first?" I asked Mr. Griffith, trying to look him steadily in the eyes, though I was fascinated by the studio floor, which, in my nervousness, seemed to undulate in rising and falling waves.

"You are to walk through that door and enter this room here," were his first instructions. "Once you are in the room, do anything that comes into your mind—in fact, just follow your most natural impulse."

That walk of a few feet to the door seemed like a long, tiresome road to eternity, for I was conscious of the whispering people around me, I was blind from nervousness, and I missed the footlights and audience. Then, again, the blue lights dashed me, and the click of the camera terrified me.

"Forget your voice," Mr. Griffith called out to me. "We don't have lines here—lines mean nothing and pantomime is everything. Enter into the spirit of the character you are playing and forget your own individuality—think of how individual you can make the character you are portraying."

I tried to act as naturally as I could, but later Mr. Griffith told me that when the picture was run in the projecting room, they were quite disappointed in me. I was awkward, unnatural and seemed conscious of the camera.

"She has a good photographic face," one of them remarked, "but I doubt if she will be a great success as a moving-picture actress."

"I think you're wrong," Mr. Griffith was quoted afterward as saying. "I am going to give this little girl a chance in some big scene and then I will be more sure about her than I am now in this hastily made test."

The next day Mr. Griffith gave me my first part in a real scene. This I shall tell you about tomorrow.

that type is too cold for expressing appreciation of many letters I receive, and your letter is one of those. Please accept my heartfelt thanks for it.

A. E. J.—Thank you for your greeting. I wish I could make you, as well as others who write to me, understand how much such kindness coming from strangers means to me.

LAKE TRIP IS DELIGHTFUL KIND OF VACATION TRIP

How many times you will hear people say "I wish I knew where I could go for a nice quiet trip; I feel as though I need it." What could be more delightful, more quieting, more healthful, than a "cruise" on the Great Lakes, those immense inland seas stretching for over one thousand miles, and bordered by the most picturesque and awe-inspiring scenery in the world? A trip on a package freighter is one of the most delightful of these cruises; no crowding, as the number of passengers is limited; and, as they carry only package freight there is no dirt or dust. Such a trip is offered by the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship Company, running between Port Huron and Duluth. The staunch steel steamers of this company (equipped with wireless) sail every Saturday and Wednesday at 10 p. m. Central time, from the company's dock at Port Huron, allowing a view of the beautiful scenery of the St. Mary's river, reaching the "Soo" the next afternoon, where the tourist can view the great "Soo" locks, the largest in the world. Then up through Lake Superior and through the Portage Canal to Houghton and Hancock, the location of the celebrated Michigan copper mines. Then across Lake Superior to Duluth, Minn., well named the "Zenith City," with its Aerial Ferry, immense ore docks and grain elevators, and many other attractions. A two-day stop is made at Duluth, giving passengers ample time to visit St. Paul and Minneapolis if they wish. The return trip is made over the same route as going up, only a different channel is used in the St. Mary's river, thus giving opportunity to see the scenery not seen on the up trip.

If you are a disciple of the slogan "See America First," a voyage through Lake Huron, the St. Mary's river and Lake Superior, constitutes the finest pleasure trip in America. This is the only line offering a "Vacation trip on a freight steamer."

Port Huron is 60 miles north of Detroit, and can be reached by Grand Trunk railway, Rapid railway, D. & C. and White Star steamers.

A line to W. S. Jenks, general passenger agent, Port Huron, Mich., will bring you illustrated booklet and full information, or ask any railroad ticket agent.

How to Prevent Croup.
Every effort should be made to prevent the attacks by giving the child a light supper and plenty of fresh air at all times. The child should be warmly clad when out of doors. Especially the feet should be well protected and under no circumstances should the child be allowed to remain with wet or cold feet. Then watch for the first symptom, hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once and the attack may be ward off. This remedy is a favorite with the mothers or croupy children and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere.

Amusements

THE FAUROT PICTURES.
Edna Goodrich's second appearance on the Paramount program at the Faurot is a great triumph for this famous beauty and brilliant stage star. She dominates the Norasco production, "The Making of Maddalena" from her first entrance. She gives an interpretation of great appeal and there are very few who will not be deeply moved by the efforts of the sweet Italian girl to assume a place in the world. Although the plot is quite conventional, it is treated in an original manner. The atmosphere of the artist's quarter in Rome are realistic, as are also scenes in New York. The photography is excellent and the play in its entirety one of genuine enjoyment. It is accompanied by Burton Holmes Travelpictures and the latest edition of the Pathe News. Last times tonight.

STAR THEATRE.
"The Man Across the Street," an imp two-reel drama, is the principal feature of the new Universal program at the Star theatre today. King Baggot has the leading role and this accomplished and popular star is seen at his best in the gripping play. Other new features are "The Janitor," a Powers comedy with Wallace Beery in the leading role, and "The River Goddess," an imp comedy-drama in which Matt Moore and Jane Gail do some pleasing work. Today only.

THE FAUROT PICTURES.
The classical beauty and genuine dramatic talent of Edna Goodrich, coupled with a story of compelling which has been magnificently produced by Oliver Morosco, make "The Making of Maddalena," the new Paramount picture at the Faurot today, an attraction well worth while. Miss Goodrich has the excellent support of Forrest Stanley, Juan de la Cruz, Howard Davies, Laura La Vane, Mary Morich and a big cast of Morosco favorites. The feature is accompanied by the last of the Burton Holmes Philippine series and the latest edition of the Pathe News. The latter shows many time-lapse scenes on the Mexican border, with a host of current events of importance all over the world.

Answers to Correspondents

Mrs. H. M. G.—Perhaps you are right in your desire to earn and have money of your own, but if your husband objects, and your doing so would make your home unpleasant, don't you think it would be better to surrender, at least for the time being? At some future time, perhaps, he will have changed his mind. Homemaking is the most important consideration you have now and your future happiness depends on it—don't you think mere money earning comes second? And don't you think you could spend his income in such a way as to make up for the money you don't earn better than you could if otherwise employed? Sometimes wise expenditure is better than money earned.

Manchurian Trade Lost To U. S. Through Japan

Bases Its Action Upon
"Monroe Doctrine For Asia" Policy.

VIII.—OUR LOST MAN-
CHURIAN TRADE.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—Japan's course in Manchuria affords an excellent opportunity to study Japanese business methods. Those methods concern Americans because they have driven American commerce from the position it had built up in the Manchurian field, because they are about to be turned against American commerce in other fields, and because they cast an illuminating side-light on Japan's cry of a "Monroe Doctrine for Asia."

In a recent annual report, the American Association of China reviewed the situation. "Turning now from trade in general to some particular considerations," say the reports in part, "What is the outlook? Under Russian domination, every nation stood on an equal footing in Manchuria. The same duties and charges were assessed against all and facilities for distributing goods and doing business in general were satisfactory. Now it is all changed. Under Japanese administration, no chance to advance its own trade is overlooked, and to competitors the means taken appear to be a departure from fair trading. In fact, they constitute a most serious violation of the open door principle on which the diplomacy of the United States in China is based."

"Japanese competition takes the form of a system of rebates, not only in freight and steamer rates, but in remission of duties and charges which are assessed against all other nations. In addition to this, many forms of petty annoyances have been worked out for the non-Japanese trader, and the imitation of established trade-marks is common."

Japan began her commercial seizure of Manchuria even before the Russo-Japanese war was over, just as the army of her traders moved on Shantung last year, on the very heels of the expedition against Kiao-Chiao. Thousands of immigrants and commercial agents followed the Japanese troops into Manchuria. So long as the military regime lasted, these traders were given many advantages by the military authorities, but although European and American merchants realized that the Japanese were gaining an advantage over them, they saw no help for it, and believed that the state of affairs was only temporary. Events proved however that Japan was inaugurating a policy of war that she intended to follow in peace.

Directly after the war, the steamship lines from Japan to the mainland found themselves running from Japan to Manchuria light. So long as the war lasted, they had been carrying men and munitions to the army, but with peace the tide of freight and humanity turned the other way. Advantage was taken of this to give Japanese goods and Japanese immigrants transportation to Manchuria at very low rates, or entirely free. It is only logical to assume that when a Japanese merchant and his stock were carried to Manchuria without charge to him, the government must have compensated the steamship company.

Further to strengthen the Japanese hold on the commerce of Manchuria, what was known as the Manchuria Export Guild was formed, including the most powerful commercial guilds in Japan. The intentions of the guild and the government in Manchuria were freely discussed in the Japanese press. They comprised a government loan of six million yen at 4-1-2 per cent. for Japanese merchants doing business in Manchuria, the carrying of Japanese goods over the South Manchurian railway free, or at one-half the usual rate for one year, and carrying the Japanese goods in Japanese ships free, or at one-half the usual rate for one year.

Such a program was in direct violation of the principle of equal opportunity to all nations, which Japan along with various European powers had agreed to support in subscribing to the American Hay doctrine of the open door. Japan has a right to make what regulations she sees fit for the management of railways in Japan; she has now the right to make such regulations for the management of railways in Korea, though time was when she guaranteed the principle of equal opportunity in Korea also. The case of Manchuria is fundamentally different.

Manchuria is still supposed to be a part of China. The open door policy is still supposed to apply to all of China. All the nations trading in Manchuria have a direct interest in the way the Manchurian railways are run. They have a right to demand the same treatment for all concerned in the matter of freights, and when Japan carries goods free, or at half-price, she violates those rights. What is less a matter of principle and more to the practical point, she puts the foreign competitor out of business. American cotton trade is a case in point. Formerly it led in Manchuria; now it is far behind.

While it is impossible to excuse the Japanese policy on such a ground, foreign merchants took some consolation from the fact that the new program was to be in effect for only one year. The same extenuating circumstance seemed to attach to many other abuses—they might prove only temporary. For instance, there was the matter of import duties. It was charged by many foreign merchants that Japanese goods were being imported free of duty, while foreign goods were hard to substantiate, because the Japanese officials flatly denied them, but they arose so spontaneously from so many different sources that it is difficult to see how they could all have been unfounded.

Not only Americans but British and other European nationals were concerned. The Shanghai branch of the British Association of China recommended to the British minister that steps should be taken "with a view to preventing Japanese commodities from being imported to various places in Manchuria without the payment of import duties," and "to put a stop to the illegal trade conducted in Manchuria through the Korean frontier." The Foreign Chamber of Commerce at the port of Newchang protested against the importation of goods duty free through Daini and Korea. It is possible that these and other business men were attacking a chimera, but it is hardly probable.

Of the smaller annoyances to which foreign traders were subjected, the most prominent were the imitation of trademarks, and the evasion by Japanese of the local tax known as "linkin." American firms had gained the confidence of the Chinese, by putting out articles of uniform quality under a trademark easily recognized. After their entry, the Japanese would put a similar article of inferior quality, with a trade-mark so much like the original that the ignorant Chinese could not tell the two apart. The effect of this was to undermine the Chinese confidence in American goods.

"Linkin" is one of the principal Chinese taxes. It constitutes a large part of the "overhead" expense in a small business. The little Japanese traders who followed the army often refused to pay this tax, thereby gaining an immense advantage over their small Chinese competitors, who had to pay it. Furthermore, the Japanese trader handled Japanese goods; the Chinese trader handled, to a large extent, American and European goods. The effect on foreign trade is easy to see.

These abuses were most conspicuous in the unsettled period following the war, but time has shown that the hopes of the foreign trader were baseless, when he looked for a return to the old conditions after the country had time to readjust itself. It is 11 years now since the war. The American Association of China still speaks in its report of "rebates in freight and steamer rates," of the "imitation of established trade-marks." The methods employed are not so crude, but as effective as ever. In other words, one of the leading American authorities on the situation, "Manchuria has been turned into a closed Japanese commercial preserve."

Manchuria is only a small part of China; there is still room in China for enormous American commercial expansion. Now Japan is trying to turn the whole of China into a closed Japanese commercial preserve. Not only did she force China to extend her Manchurian territorial and railway leases for a period of 99 years, thereby cutting off any possibility of the re-opening of Manchuria, but she extended a control similar to the one she exercises in Manchuria over the provinces of Shantung and Fukien. In her 21 demands she established a preferential position in China as a whole. Those of her demands which she did not force through she did not relinquish. She simply postponed them. Her program has not only gone audaciously far; apparently it means to go farther.

In view of all this, the talk of a Japanese Monroe Doctrine for Asia seems so absurd that it is hard to see how this apology for Japan's policy ever gained serious consideration. In brief, the argument is that since the United States established a Monroe Doctrine covering the weaker nations of the American continent, Japan has an equal right to establish a similar doctrine covering China, the weak nation of eastern Asia.

The Monroe Doctrine never had anything commercial or industrial about it. It certainly never embodied the faintest idea of extending the sovereignty of the United States. The Japanese policy is obviously a commercial policy. In the regions covered by the Monroe Doctrine, our trade until the present war lagged behind that of England and Germany. In regions where the Japanese policy dominates, Japanese trade is forced to the front at the expense of other nations. The Monroe Doctrine never led and never will lead to the acquisition of a foot of territory. As for Japan's policy—there is Korea.

To establish an analogy between Japan's Chinese policy and our Monroe Doctrine, we should have to get to a 99-year lease on Argentine railroads, get control of the biggest Chilean mines, extort the privilege of financing Venezuelan industrial projects, compel Bolivia to employ our military and financial advisers, demand that the police of Mexican cities be put under joint Mexican and United States administration, order Brazil to purchase half her munitions of war from us—and even then we would be lagging behind the example set by Japan.

There is already a Monroe Doctrine for China. It is the Hay Doctrine, the Open Door—territorial integrity guaranteed, and equal opportunity to all. That is what the Monroe Doctrine means to South America, and what the Hay Doctrine means to China. Japanese talk of an Asiatic Monroe Doctrine only serves to bring out the diametric conflict between the policies of Japan and the United States.

BOYS TO FLY KITES AT PARK SATURDAY

A big kite-flying party will be held at Fauror Park Saturday afternoon. This party is the idea of Miss Blanche Werum, playground supervisor, who wants every boy in Lima to be at the park with his kite, ready to enter the contest. The wind will start up the kites promptly at 2 o'clock.

One boy, who may know more about the business of kite-flying than the rest, will fly the official kite. The other boys who will be entered, may be able to get pointers from him on kite-flying.

As usual, prizes will be given. To the boy who has the luck to send his kite the highest in the air, his efforts will be rewarded. To the boy who makes his own kite and enters it in the race and it proves the best, he too will carry home a prize.

Prominent business men of the city will be the judges in this contest. Among those asked to officiate are Emmitt R. Curtin, Frank Colucci, Attorney S. S. Wheeler, Mack Altschul and Health Officer A. L. Jones.

The remainder of the afternoon will be spent by the boys on the base ball and volley ball courts at the park. Miss Werum says the contest is open to any and all boys and she hopes there will be the happiest crowd of boys yet on the playgrounds, with their kites, ready to fly the same, on Saturday.

6,000 CHEER FAST AUTO SPEED EVENTS AT DRIVING PARK

Thrill Given When Joe Lep-hart Goes Through Fence.

The auto races at Lima Driving park yesterday afternoon were witnessed by the largest crowd in the history of the track. A conservative estimate of the number of persons that attended the event is 6,000. Although the races were good they were marred by several accidents, which dampened the enthusiasm of the drivers somewhat in the remainder of the events.

The worst accident of the day occurred on the back stretch of the 10-mile event, when Joe Lephart of Greenville, driving a Cinc went through the fence. A splinter from a board in the fence ran into the left arm of the driver causing a painful wound. Dr. F. M. Hunt of Piqua, democratic candidate for congress in the fourth district, who was a spectator in the grandstand, administered first aid to the injured man and Patterson's ambulance took him to the city hospital.

George Mowery, who was hovering close to the rear of Lephart's machine when the accident occurred, narrowly escaped serious injury, when the steering gear of his wheel snapped off. Fred Lake finished first in the 10-mile event. He drove an Everett Special. Ralph Ormsby in a Monroe Special finished second and Fred Cole in a Maxwell, third.

Bill Doty in a Chevrolet captured the big event of the day when he won the 25 mile race. His time was 30 minutes and 21 seconds. Herbert Rudy at the wheel of his Lightning Comet was third and Fred Cole in a Maxwell, second. Fred Lake's car threw a wheel in this event eliminating him from the race.

The five-mile race was won by George Mowery in a Stutz. James Lephart finished second in his Cinc, and Marsh Bowman third in his Saxon.

Rudy captured one of the most coveted prizes that was offered to the large field of speeders when he won the Chamber of Commerce cup in the one-mile time trial in 1:08 1/2 minutes.

PLANS FOR CHANGE OF RIVER DROPPED

City Council Will Only Expend $100,000 Bond Issue.

The Sherman plan suggested for the improvement of the Ottawa river was tossed into the discard by the city council Monday evening, as a result of the report of George W. Fuller, New York expert on under-ground drainage, in charge of the sewer survey.

Fuller's report explains that the improvements planned for the enlargement and improvement of the sewer system, will remove the chief objection to the present status of Hog creek, that it is an open sewer. In view of this, according to the New York engineer, the city would be unwarranted in expending $1,200,000 for beautifying the stream through the city.

Issuance of the $100,000 river improvements authorized by the voters at the bond issue election of April 25 was ordered by the council, together with the appointment of a commission to buy in the right of way for a 125-foot stream. Mayor Simpson was also ordered to name an advisory body to map out the plan of improvement. President Charles F. Price appointed to the former commission Dr. S. M. Bowser, as chairman, John M. Boose, Andrew DeCurtin, Dr. Thomas K. Jacobs and Henry Frueh.

Three Big Time Boys Work Good

(By Frank G. Menke)

NEW YORK, July 5.—Grover Cleveland Alexander is aimed just now for heights even dizzier than those he climbed in 1915.

Alex's heaving a year ago was the mightiest factor in the uplift of the Phillies. He hurled a brand of baseball that few men ever have equalled. He worked like a Trojan. His wonderful arm was called upon out of turn very frequently—but it never failed to serve.

Many there were who figured that the 1916 strain on the pitching wing of the Philadelphia phenom would result this season in loss of effectiveness. Not one fan in 50 thousand cared to predict that Alex might achieve a record beyond that of last season. But Alex has upset the dope by pitching in a way that overshadows his superb work of a year ago.

The side wheeler worked in 49 games in 1916. He won 31 and lost 10. The other eight were no decision affairs, as far as he was concerned, as he appeared merely in the role of relief pitcher. His 1916 average was 756.

Facing greatly strengthened clubs all around the circuit, Alexander has ploughed his way through them to 14 victories in his first 17 starts, for the amazing average of 859. That is a mark that ranks alongside the greatest ever turned in up to mid-June by a regular pitcher. And Alex shows no signs of skidding. Instead of his arm weakening, it gains power. His most recent efforts, in the main, have been more wonderful than those in April and early May.

With Alex going strong—and ever stronger—and the whole team playing air-tight baseball, it is only wonder that Phillies fans are preparing to gaze upon another world series within the confines of their drowsy city?

Morton is A. L. Sensation.

"Keep your optics upon Guy Morton," enjoined Ed Bang, sporting editor of the Cleveland News, a year or so ago. If that boy ever gets even a fair ball team behind him, he will blaze the trail for all the pitchers in the Johnson circuit.

Bang's prediction has come true. Guy Morton, the rookie twirler of 1914, upon being accorded some pretty good support by his Indian mates this year, has been pitching at an almost superhuman clip.

He today ranks as one of the greatest pitchers in the game—and he hasn't reached his real crest. He is only 23 years old and still improving. Given another year or so, he may set a pitching mark that may survive through the years.

Morton this season won 10 out of his first 12 games. One of the two games he lost was a hard-luck affair. He has wonderful speed, some perfect curves, great control and, in baseball parlance, "a noodle." He lacks nothing in natural pitching skill.

Morton began his professional career with the Columbus, Ga., team in the Cotton States league in 1913, when he was 20 years old. He won 5 and lost 5 games that year. In 1914 he was secured by the Cleveland club and given a training camp trial. Then he was sent to Waterbury, Conn., in the Eastern association, for more seasoning.

The youthful phenom pitched 9 games for Waterbury during the spring and early summer of 1914—and won 8 of them. Cleveland recalled him during mid-summer and set him to work. Morton won 9 out of 14 games for Cleveland in 1914—average 642. In 1915, with a miserable team behind him, he triumphed 15 times in 31 trials for an average of 516, which was far beyond the 1915 average of his club.

And now in 1916, aided by some timely batting and backed by a fine fielding club, Morton's chance has come—and, gosh, how he is whizzing along!

"Pol" Ferritt Pitching Pretty.

"Pol" Ferritt has returned. He was conspicuously absent, in a pitching way, last season. John McGraw, as you may remember, parted with a bundle of cash to secure "Pol" from the Cardinals. While with the Mississippi river outfit, "Pol" performed very well indeed. John expected that "Pol" would do likewise—and a bit more for the 1915 Giants.

But "Pol," of boy, flivvered badly last season. He won 12 out of 30 games, for an average of 400. He was one of the best little in-and-outers of the year. John became quite disgusted with "Pol" before the season was over.

Now, however, "Pol" is redeeming himself. He started off in 1916 at a nice clip—and he has been clipping along very well since then.

White-ell County Secures State Aid to Hard Surface Route—Road of Concrete and Brick—$225,000 Spent in Last Three Years

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—White-ell county is taking a wide lead in the matter of permanently improving the route of the Lincoln Highway in Illinois. $15,000 of state aid money has been used in so-called additional cement construction on the road this year.

A but three miles of brick have been put in in Sterling township this year at a cost of more than $50,000, the road being 15 feet wide while a concrete section 14

LOVE VS. JEALOUSY

He—Do you believe there is such a thing as true and lasting love?

She—I sometimes doubt it.

He—Well, there is Mr. and Mrs. Gessing for example, and they seem never to want to lose sight of each other. Doesn't that look like true and lasting love?

She—It may be that, but it looks to me more like true and lasting jealousy.

NIEHOFF THE FIELDING SENSATION OF THE PHILLIES

BERT NIEHOFF OF THE PHILLIES

Bert Niehoff, the Phillies' second sacker, is playing one of the most sensational games of his baseball career. Niehoff has shown wonderful fielding ability recently, especially against the New York Giants. In one of the games at the Polo grounds in the recent Giants-Phillies series, Niehoff speared a hot drive that looked like a sure safe hit.

Locals Lose at Delphos

DELPHOS, July 5.—The Lima Independents were defeated yesterday in a closely contested game of baseball, when they were taken into camp by the fast Delphos club by a score of 4 to 2. Although Lima garnered eight hits to the other's six, the fielding of the latter club held down the scoring.

In the first inning Lima scored two runs with one man down, but Tilton struck out the next two consecutive batters. This was the only time that he was in danger. In the last half of the initial inning, the Delphos club scored three runs on two errors and two singles. They added another run to this in the seventh.

EFFECT OF SOIL ON WHEAT.

The influence of different soils on the composition of wheat is the subject of an investigation undertaken by the United States bureau of chemistry. The effect of several kinds of soil will be tested under identical atmospheric conditions. The program contemplates transporting to the Arlington experimental farm one three hundred and twentieth of an acre of soil three feet deep consisting of about 16 tons each of sand, clay, marl, muck and a good agricultural soil and in each of these plots the same kind of seed will be grown. Exchange.

UNPLEASANT CRITICISM.

Mrs. De Style (exhibiting picture)—You know my daughter paints from nature.

Critic—Far from it, it seems—Exchange.

in both games, with the Reds and the Athletics on the losing end.

Mowrey pulled a bone yesterday when he attempted to steal second with a man anchored on that bag.

Tomorrow begins another clash between the east and west.

COOK AND POSTMASTER, TOO.

A country postmaster has applied to the women's registration bureau for an "efficient woman to act as postmistress." "She must be able to handle money, be a good penman, do housework and any other work that may present itself." In addition the postmaster modestly requires the woman shall be of a "pleasant disposition."

He explains the housework provision by saying that his wife wishes to unload a share of her work on his assistant.

Whether the postmaster is merely planning a summer vacation or will enlist in the army is not stated in the request.—St. Paul Dispatch.

ITS SORT.

"Military courtship must be trying."

"Naturally. It is a sort of court-martial."—Exchange.

July 4 Fights

Johnny Dundee out-pointed Ever Hammer in ten rounds at East Chicago, Ind.

Freddie Welsh won on a four from Ad Wolgast in 11 rounds at Denver.

Charley White and Johnny Griffiths fought a 12-round draw at Canton.

Joe Mandot beat Jommy Minor in eight rounds at Memphis.

Red Henderson won on a foul in the first round from Bobby Waugh at Shreveport, La.

NICE JOB.

"What line did you say you were in?"

"I manufacture a face powder that can't be kissed off."

"Who has charge of your proving grounds?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.
